

Communications Intern for the AI Song Contest

You are interested in an international internship in the cultural sector? You are interested in music and artificial intelligence?

Then join our team at the AI Song Contest! We are looking for interns who can support us immediately and remotely as part of a 2-6-month (compulsory) internship in the communication of this year's AI Song Contest in Zurich.

Your tasks (depending on your background and interests):

- Conception & creation of text and (audio-)visual content around the award show, our artists and other events for our website, newsletter and our social media channels
- Development of new formats to support our artists' visibility and fundraising
- Public relations: communication and creation of texts for the international press
- Support for this year's award show in Zurich in October

Your profile:

- You are looking for an internship or would like to gain experience part-time on the side
- You work in an organised, structured manner and show commitment and initiative
- You have preferably already gained experience in the field of communication/social media
- Good knowledge of MS Office – basic knowledge in graphic design or Canva would be nice
- You are interested in the topics of music and AI or are willing to dig deeper

What you can expect from us:

- International Experience: you will be working with our team that is spread worldwide and with international artists. We communicate in English.
- Network: you will get access to an international network in music and high class academic institutions (music information retrieval, AI copyright and AI)
- Flexible Working hours: Very flexible working hours, own management of your tasks, approx. 2 virtual online meetings per week
- Flexible Location: we all work somewhere in Europe and remotely, we meet mainly virtually

Want to join? Send us your CV to info@aisongcontest.com.

Stichting AI Song Contest is a Dutch foundation that organises the AI Song Contest, an annual international music competition in which teams from different musical traditions and disciplines compose songs together using AI methods.
